Members Newsletter / August 2025

Message from Helen, FoWP Chair

Welcome to the Summer edition of our newsletter, full of success, engaging events and amazing achievements. As you will see below we have our Annual General Meeting coming up and I invite you to join us in the Hall for this, it's a great way to reflect on our year together and a chance to look forward. I would like to ask you, as a valued member, if you feel there is anything you would like to offer the group, either as a committee member or in one of our volunteering roles or is there someone you know who would enjoy being a new Friend that you could sign up? Please consider all options and I'll end with a quote by Henry Ford: "Coming together is a beginning. Keeping together is progress. Working together is success."

Thanks to all, Helen

Open Meetings

The June open meeting in the Camellia house covered a wide range of exciting topics about Wollaton Park!

- Wollaton's Past: We heard fascinating stories about the park's history from former employee Frank Knight, including news that there were once Peacocks in the formal garden.
Do you have any photos of the Peacocks you can share with us?
- Ongoing Park Projects: Rachel updated us on various park initiatives, including potential refurbishment of the Fountain and plans for the Camellia House protective roof.
- Park Run Success: Saj shared the impressive success of Park Run, including visitor feedback and potential future developments to possibly include a junior park run. We also touched on parking updates related to Park Run.
- Helen talked about the FoWP pamphlets, which are being revamped for the AGM.

There was a very enjoyable social afterwards with soft drinks and wine.

Park News in Brief

Several Horse Chestnut trees on Jubilee Avenue (the path from the Stableblock to the Hall) were removed due to poor health caused by Horse Chestnut Bleeding Canker (see photo). The prolonged dry weather significantly worsened their condition, leading to large branches falling onto public footpaths. This created an immediate and significant risk to public safety, forcing the council to fell the trees. We were assured this was a necessary safety measure, not a decision taken lightly by the Council. We are in discussion with the Council regarding appropriate tree replacements.

Several members reported to us that during Splendour, the path from the lake to the stable sustained a lot of damage to the curbing. We have reported this to the Council and are awaiting a response to the plans to repair it. We've also fed back on the number of discarded cable ties from the event.

There have been local press and BBC reports of issues with people getting too close to the deer (again) and litter in the park.

Walled Garden Summer Fair

The Walled Garden Summer Festival welcomed 959 adults, 173 children, and 42 dogs, raising an incredible £3,500! Every penny of these funds will be directly invested into future enhancements for the garden.

A highlight was the firing up of the bread oven.

New Sensory Garden Opened

Contained within the Walled Garden, a new Sensory Garden was opened by the Sheriff of Nottingham, Councillor Zafran Khan.

Lilian Greenwood MP also visited the Walled Garden in August, accompanied by Zafran Khan and Steve Battlemuch. Seen below with Andy Jackson, viewing the Bothys due for restoration.

Lenton Times

The Walled Garden is featured in Issue 50 of the Lenton Times.

The article describes the construction of the estate's first walled garden in 1742 by Francis Willoughby, primarily for culinary purposes (now the Botanic Garden). The article then describes the larger walled garden we know today, built between 1783 and 1788 under Henry Willoughby. The article also describes the slip gardens and an orchard. Finally, the feature discusses the integration of glass structures, tracing the evolution from an early conservatory at Wollaton to the later construction of heated glasshouses in the mid-1860s.

Copies are available for £2 in the Walled Garden, or via the Lenton Times website.

Saturday Conservation Tasks.

We had to cancel the June conservation session due to the heatwave. In July and August, we returned to the tree nursery to clear a new area for more trees and open a path around the outside of the wall

To keep these Saturday sessions viable, we do need more volunteers. Can you help out? 3rd Saturday morning every month.

Tree Nursery Maintenance

The tree nursery has required significant maintenance, including watering during the long dry spell, and keeping the bindweed down by regular mowing.

If we are to expand the nursery, we'll need more volunteers to support the regular maintenance.

To keep the bindweed down, can you help us keep up regular mowing on Tuesdays or Thursdays during the growing season?

Formal Garden

Feedback on the new planting scheme in the Formal Garden has been positive. The gardens have also benefited from the automated watering system, which was brought back to life with help from volunteers uncovering and maintaining the sunken sprinkler heads.

Plans for the pond restoration are progressing. We will bring more news as soon as we can.

On Hold - Camellia House Opening

Unfortunately, our June appeal for volunteers to help open the Camellia House on weekends didn't yield any responses, so we've had to put that plan on hold.

If you can help, please let us know!

Karen Lushey

Karen is moving to a full-time role with NCC libraries, and we at Friends of Wollaton Park (FoWP) want to express our sincere thanks for her incredible work as volunteer coordinator. Karen has been a vital link between NCC and FoWP, instrumental in launching many of our volunteer activities, including those in the Walled Garden, Formal Garden, Hall, and various conservation tasks.

On a personal note, six years ago, as I approached retirement, I responded to Karen's Volunteer Park Ranger advert, which opened up a new chapter in my life and led to a new circle of friends with a passion for the park. I'm sure many others have similar stories of how Karen has opened doors for them.

We wish Karen all the very best in her new role and future endeavours.

Hedgehog Survey

You might recall that in 2024, volunteers placed 30 wildlife cameras in Wollaton Park as part of the National Hedgehog Monitoring Programme in association with the University of Nottingham. While we didn't see any hedgehogs, we did capture some great wildlife images.

<https://friendsofwollatonpark.org.uk/tag/hedgehog/>

The university would like to re-run the exercise in 2025. We'll be setting up the cameras on Saturday Sept 20th. As before, we then need a team of people to review the images to identify what has been captured - last year we had 40,000 images to review!

If interested in either task, please contact Colin
